LOYOLA COLLEGE

ANNOUNCEMENT FOR THE YEAR 1920 - 1921

LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA
1801 WEST SIXTEENTH STREET

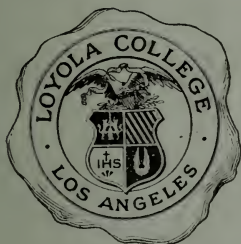

Loyola College

1801 W. 16TH STREET

LOS ANGELES

Conducted by the Jesuits

THE REV. HENRY WELCH, S. J., President

There are three distinct departments at Loyola:

1. The St. Vincent School of Law.
2. The College of Letters, Science and Philosophy.
3. The College Preparatory or High School.

THE ST. VINCENT SCHOOL OF LAW

is a select school of law, leading after four years to the degree of LL. B. or J. D. Classes are held from 7:30 to 9:30 on the evenings of Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday. The courses of study that are prescribed are intended to give the student a thorough knowledge of the rules of law, and at the same time to enable him to acquire a broad and comprehensive view of the great body of the law as a system. The various subjects of study are arranged in their natural and logical order, and in this fact the student finds a much desired inspiration for steady application to his work. It is greatly to be desired that when a student has begun the work of the Courses there shall be such an easy and natural development of the great subject of law to his mind, that there shall be an ever increasing desire to complete fully that which he has undertaken.

Teachers for the College are selected from among the active and successful members of the bar. These men bring to the class room a spirit and energy bred of a strenuous life in a great profession, and a culture to be derived only from professional experience at the bar. In their personality as well as in their teaching they inspire the young man to his best effort and move him to aspire to the best things in his chosen profession.

This school of Law is different from other law schools in prescribing courses in Logic, Legal Ethics, Natural Law, Rational Psychology, and Metaphysics.

Another course of special value to the earnest student of the Law is that of Debating and Public Speaking.

Classes begin September 8, 1920, at 7:30 p. m.

Tuition is $90 per year, $22.50 to be paid on September 8, November 1, January 1, and March 1.

Applications should be mailed early, accompanied by testimony of good moral character and of scholarship.

Courses of Instruction:

Algebraic Theory	History
Analytical Geometry	Logic
Apologetics	Oratory
Calculus	Public Speaking
Chemistry	Physics
Cosmology	Poetry
Debating	Psychology (Rational)
Epistemology	Rhetoric
Ethics	Spanish
French	Theodicy
Greek	Trigonometry

Tuition, $80 per year. Classes begin September 8, 1920, at 9 a. m.

An Evening Course in Philosophy, one hour a week, is open to professional men, business men and those whose seriousness of purpose and maturity of thought entitle them, in the opinion of the Faculty, to follow with profit the lectures of this course.

THE LOYOLA COLLEGE PREPARATORY OR HIGH SCHOOL

A standard course of four years, open to graduates of a grammar school. Loyola is not a place for boys who wish to idle away their time, but for young men who desire to devote themselves to serious study. Classes begin September 1, 1920. Tuition $50 per year, $10 to be paid September 1, November 1, January 1, March 1, and May 1. Daily instruction and drill in military science and tactics by U. S. Army Officer.

HISTORY AND ORGANIZATION

Loyola College, for day scholars only, conducted by the Fathers of the Society of Jesus, is the successor of the old St. Vincent's College founded in this city by the Vincentians in 1865. Chartered by the State of California in 1869, the College was empowered to confer degrees and was granted the privileges of a University. In 1911 the Jesuit Fathers opened the College with a four year High School course. In 1914 the collegiate department was begun.

A full collegiate course leading to the degree A. B. is now open to students who have successfully completed the classical High School course.

In February, 1918, it was found necessary to incorporate under the name of Loyola College, and in March, 1918, the College began to operate under the new name.

LOCATION

The College is centrally located on Pico Heights, twenty minutes from the heart of town. It is reached by the West 16th street, Venice, Santa Monica and Redondo Red Cars, and by the West Pico Yellow Cars. The Vermont line is but three minutes from the College.

SYSTEM OF EDUCATION

The educational system of Loyola College is substantially that of all other Colleges of the Society of Jesus. Those desiring to make either a scientific or historical study of that system have abundant sources of information in "Loyola" of the Great Educational Series, published by Scribner, and "Jesuit Education," published by Herder.

The following brief outline of the principles of the system, the dominant features of its method, and the object aimed at by its teaching, will give a general idea of its purpose.

Education, in its complete sense, is understood by us as the full and harmonious development of the intellectual, moral and physical powers of man. It is not, therefore, mere instruction or the acquisition of knowledge, although these necessarily accompany any right system of education. The gaining of knowledge is a secondary, or at most, a concomitant, result of education. Learning is an instrument of education, not its end. The end is culture, and mental and moral development.

Hence, the instrument of education, that is, such studies, sciences or languages are chosen as will effectively further the end proposed. These studies, moreover, are selected only in such numbers as are sufficient and helpful to ensure natural development of the student's powers. A student who is to be educated will not be forced, in the short period of his college course, and with his immature faculties, to study a multiplicity of the languages and sciences into which the vast world of modern knowledge has been divided. If two or more sciences give similar training to some mental faculty, that one is chosen which combines the most effective training with the largest and most fundamental knowledge.

The immediate purpose is not to fit the student for some special employment or profession, but to give him such a general, vigorous and rounded development as will enable him to cope successfully even with the unforeseen emergencies of life. This, while giving the mind stability, provides also for mental elasticity. One of the disheartening results of specialism in young students is mental rigidity. The studies, therefore, are so graded as to be adapted to the gradual mental growth of the student and the scientific unfolding of knowledge.

It is fundamental in the system of the Society of Jesus that different studies have distinct and peculiar educational values. Mathematics, the Natural Sciences, Language and History are complementary instruments of education to which the doctrine of equivalence cannot be applied. The specific training given by one cannot be supplied by another.

Furthermore, Language and History have always been held in esteem as leading factors in education. Mathematics and the Natural Sciences bring the student into contact with the material aspects of nature, and exercise the inductive and deductive powers of reasoning. Language and History effect a higher union. They are manifestations of spirit to spirit. By their study and for their acquirement, the whole mind of man is brought into widest and subtlest play. The acquisition of Language especially calls for delicacy of judgment and fineness of perception, and for a constant, keen and quick use of the reasoning powers. A special importance is attached to the classic tongues of Rome and Greece. As these are languages with a structure and idiom remote from the language of the student, the study of them lays bare before him the laws of thought and logic, and requires attention, reflection, and analysis of the fundamental relations between thought and grammar. In studying them the student is led to the fundamental recesses of language. They exercise him in exactness of conception in grasping the foreign thought, and in delicacy of expression in clothing that thought in the dissimilar garb of the mother-tongue. While recognizing, then, in education the necessity and importance of Mathematics and the Natural Sciences, which unfold the interdependence and laws of the world, of time and space, the Jesuit system of education has unwaveringly kept Language in a position of honor as an instrument of culture.

Lastly, the system does not share the illusion of those who seem to imagine that education, understood as an enriching and stimulating of the intellectual faculties, has a moral elevating influence on human life. While conceding the effects of education in energizing and refining imagination, taste, understanding and powers of observation we have always held that knowledge and intellectual development of themselves have no moral efficacy. Only religion can purify the heart, and guide and strengthen the will.

The Jesuit system of education, then, aims at developing, side by side, the moral and intellectual faculties of the student, and sending forth to the world men of sound judgment, of acute and rounded intellect, of upright and manly conscience. And since men are not made better citizens by the mere accumulation of knowledge, without a guiding and controlling force, the principal faculties to be developed are the moral faculties. Moreover, morality is to be taught continuously. It must be the vital force animating the whole organic structure of education. It must be the atmosphere the student breathes. It must suffuse with its light all that he reads, illuminate all that is noble, expose what is base, and give to the true and the false their relative light and shade.

In a word, the purpose of Jesuit teaching is to lay a solid foundation in the whole mind and character for any superstructure of science, professional and special, as well as for the upbuilding of moral, civil and religious life.

THE COLLEGE OF LETTERS, SCIENCE AND PHILOSOPHY

The Faculty of Loyola College, in accordance with the convictions of the best educators, and the practice of Catholic Colleges in general and of some eminent universities, do not consider the preparatory education complete which ends with the secondary school. The course of studies prescribed in the College of Letters, Science and Philosophy is directed to strengthen and broaden the foundation for professional studies which has been built in the High School Department. The College of Letters, Science and Philosophy embraces the following courses of study:

Algebraic Theory	Latin
Analytical Geometry	Logic
Apologetics	Oratory
Calculus	Public Speaking
Chemistry	Physics
Cosmology	Poetry
Debating	Political Economy
Epistemology	Psychology (Rational)
Ethics	Rhetoric
French	Spanish
Greek	Theodicy
History	Trigonometry

Classes begin September 8, 1920.

THE COLLEGE PREPARATORY OR HIGH SCHOOL

A standard course of four years, open to graduates of grammar school. The instruction given in this department, besides being a preparation for College, aims at imparting an education such as is usually given in the best High Schools and Academies. Loyola is not a place for boys who wish to idle away their time, but for young men desiring to devote themselves to serious study.

Classes begin September 1, 1920.

Reserve Officers' Training Corps

CAPTAIN MARION P. VESTAL, Inf. U. S. A.

Professor of Military Science and Tactics

SERGEANT ELMER J. MENEFEE, Inf. U. S. A.

Instructor in Military Science and Tactics

SERGEANT JAMES H. BROWNBILL, Cav. U. S. A.

Instructor in Military Science and Tactics

On March 31st, 1919, by order of the Committee on Education and Special Training, a Reserve Officers' Training Corps was established at Loyola College.

Military training is of obligation for all students, even for those who may not elect to join the corps.

The regulations as sent out by the War Department make it clear that the civil status of a student joining the R. O. T. C. is not changed in the least. He is no more subject to call than is any other American boy. His residence is not restricted to any one place nor his attendance to any one school. The courses of studies are not changed.

The student joining the R. O. T. C. will be supplied by the Government with a regular infantry equipment, notably uniform, arms and ammunition. Summer camps will be established, attendance at which is purely optional; members attending these camps will however receive extra uniform, transportation and commutation of subsistence.

Viewed from every angle, the establishment of the R. O. T. C. is a distinct advantage to the student, to the school and to the nation.

Fees and Expenses

As this institution is not endowed, it is entirely dependent for its support on the fees paid for tuition.

Payments must be made quarterly or semi-annually in advance. The account for tuition dates from the day of the student's entrance. No deduction is allowed for absence, save in the case of dismissal or protracted illness. The session is divided into quarters, beginning respectively the 1st of September, the 1st of November, the 1st of February and the 1st of April.

Expenses in the School of Law

Ninety dollars per year, payable quarterly in advance.

Philosophy Course, $20 per year, payable quarterly in advance.

Expenses in the College Department

College Course, $80 per year, payable quarterly in advance.

Laboratory Fee, $5.00 per semester; $10.00 per year.

Deposit for breakage, $5.00 (returnable).

Diploma, $10.00.

Expenses in the High School Department.

High School Course, $50.00 per year, payable in advance.

Laboratory Fee, $5.00 per semester; $10.00 per year.

Deposit for breakage, $5.00 (returnable).

Graduation Certificate, $5.00.

Commercial Course

English Commercial Course, or any Commercial branch, $80.00 per year, payable quarterly in advance.

Other Expenses

Student Body dues, $2.00 per year. These dues are levied on all students for the support of athletic activities.

Locker rent, 75c per year.

For each conditioned examination, $1.00.

For each examination taken out of time, $1.00.

For late registration, $1.00.

Former students, desiring a detailed account of scholarship, must pay a Registrar's fee of $1.00.

Five dollars deposit is required to insure the careful usage and return of the uniform and equipment issued to the members of the R. O. T. C. All students, even though they do not belong to the R. O. T. C. are required to have a uniform. Students are held liable for any damage done to the College property.

Degrees will not be conferred on students whose debts to the College remain unpaid. Students whose accounts with the Treasurer have not been closed before the end of the year will not be allowed to take honors, to be promoted to a higher class, to receive a certificate or a diploma or to receive credentials.

Scholarships

Many talented boys without means but anxious to have an education come to the doors of the College or are brought by interested friends.

Many such we educate free of charge, yet we cannot undertake to accommodate all. To assist us many generous people have founded scholarships. They perform a good work which heaven alone can repay, they co-operate with the members of the Society of Jesus, who devote themselves to the formation of upright men, men of character and of sound Christian principles.

Scholarships are of two kinds, permanent and annual, and may be founded for a College student or for a High School student.

The founder of a permanent scholarship has the right in perpetuity to keep a student in the department for which the scholarship has been instituted.

Permanent Scholarship in the College, $2,000.00. Permanent Scholarship in the High School, $1,250.00. Annual Scholarship in the College, $80.00. Annual Scholarship in the High School, $50.00.

PERMANENT HIGH SCHOOL SCHOLARSHIPS

The Father Noonan Scholarship in memory of the late Rev. Joseph Noonan.

The Higgins Scholarships, awarded to deserving boys by the Higgins Estate.

The Deming Scholarship, donated by Mrs. Mary Deming of San Francisco, in memory of the late Joseph G. Deming.

ANNUAL HIGH SCHOOL SCHOLARSHIPS

The Bishop Conaty Scholarship, the gift of a friend.

One Scholarship, the gift of a friend.

Two Scholarships, the gifts of friends.

Two Scholarships, the gift of the Knights of Columbus, Pasadena.

Messrs. Joseph P. Giroux, Edward D. McLaughlin.

Needs

Though the progress of Loyola College during the years of its existence has been successful beyond our expectations, yet further development, consistent with the requirements of Catholic education in this city must necessarily be retarded by the fact that the college is not an endowed institution and that it is carrying a heavy debt. Its maintenance depends on the tuition fees of the students, and on such donations as the generosity of its benefactors may prompt them to offer. Its professors serve without salary or any compensation beyond the necessary living expenses, and we therefore appeal with the more confidence to those who have the interests of Catholic Education at heart.

A very special need is the proper equipment of the Science Department.
